Notable Projects

1. Rolls Royce

Rolls Royce is a world-renowned luxury car brand that has set the standard for automotive innovation and excellence. To match their uniform and definitive brand identity, we were tasked to design a website that showcases the luxury and innovation of Rolls Royce.

Our goal was to create a visually stunning website that captures the essence of the brand and appeals to their high-end clientele. We started by conducting thorough research on the brand, its history, and its target audience.

We also analyzed the competitors to ensure that our design would stand out and deliver a unique user experience. Our team then developed a comprehensive design strategy that involved creating a user-friendly interface, a captivating layout, and a modern design aesthetic. We incorporated high-quality images and videos of Rolls Royce vehicles to highlight their sleek designs and state-of-the-art technology.

2. Above the Cloud

Above the Cloud is a full-service media and marketing agency in the US that specializes in helping businesses reach new heights through creative branding and marketing strategies.

Our team was approached to develop a website that would showcase the company's expertise and services in a visually stunning and engaging way.

We began by developing the branding concept, which included a sleek and modern logo design that would set the tone for the rest of the website. From there, we focused on developing a website that would capture the company's unique approach to marketing while also delivering a seamless and engaging user experience.

Our team was also tasked with content marketing, ensuring that all the content we wrote matched the website's messaging and tone. We focused on creating content that was both informative and engaging, highlighting the company's services and expertise while also providing valuable insights into the world of digital marketing.

3. Mazda

Ourteam worked closely with Mazda Cambodia to design a website that showcases the sleekness and features of their entire product line-up. With high-quality images and detailed descriptions, the site highlights the unique specifications and benefits of each vehicle, catering to the Cambodian demographic and buying behavior.

Our goal was to create a user-friendly and easy to sift through website that will help potential buyers to book a test drive or viewing right away.

4. City of Powder Springs

Solutions' Plus is proud to have been chosen by the City of Powder Springs, Georgia, to create their new tourism website. The project goal was to attract more tourists and residents to the city by highlighting its unique attractions, events, and community. The website development project includes creating all content, designing the website, and ensuring its functionality and accessibility.

The website features a user-friendly interface with easy navigation and comprehensive information on Powder Springs' best places to visit, eat, and stay. It also provides information on the upcoming events as well as useful resources for visitors, such as restaurant and shop guides. The site has a fully responsive design for mobile devices and is optimized for search engines, ensuring that it reaches a broader audience.

We are also in charge of their website maintenance and blog updates.

5. Building Designers Association Australia

The Building Designers Association Australia (BDAA) is a professional organization that represents building designers and architects across Australia. The BDAA website was designed to improve the online presence of the organization, engage with both the public and members, and provide valuable resources to designers and architects.

The project involves creating a user-friendly website with two portals: a public portal and a member portal. The public portal features information about the BDAA, how you can get accredited, and learn about upcoming events.

The member portal provides BDAA members with access to exclusive content, resources, and tools. Members will be able to update their profiles, showcase their work, and connect with other members. They will also have access to training and development resources, job postings, and industry news.
